Getting ready for a fly-in takes some preparation. Having group meetings will help you eliminate bringing too much gear...especially duplicate items and too much food. While you are together, list your questions and "cc" all members of the group before you email it to us. This way, everyone is included in the preparation.

The world is understaffed with now, and so are we ☐ ☐ Please be patient with email responses. There is no way I can get through them all. If your question is urgent and important, please call or simply email again. For fishing trips, you can also read through preparation information and most all your questions should be answered there.
